Q: where are your products available in CH? Thus far I am ordering online and this can be an issue with customs

A: You can purchase online via nourishme.ch

Q: this is interesting research and the sample is a bit small to be then basing the idea of taking probiotics as a definitive way to boost the immune system is a bit concerning

A: The research extends beyond this study and immunological effects of probiotics are well documented. We also have excellent safety data and thousands of case studies over decades of positive results. Thank you for the question.

Q: thank you for pointing that out, the presentation implies it was only this research

A: No problem, great question.

Q: Is this webinar also in german, french and italian possible?

A: We hope to extend the languages of the webinars and will keep you informed.

Q: checked out your website, great. Do I understand correctly that you do not have all the products? Is there any chance you will?

A: At the moment it is a core selection of products (also given legal limitations in Switzerland in particular effecting vitamins), but we hope to keep increasing the range with time. nourish me also offer a practitioner trade discount, you can find more information at www.nourishme.ch

News

Our daily life does not always allow for the perfect diet. Stress, tiredness, illness or environmental challenges may place further strain on the body and immune system. As a result, it may be beneficial to support your daily nutrient intake and provide your body with what it requires to work most effectively and sustainably.

nourish-me offers a selection of high quality nutritional supplements which have been proven to work in practice: minerals, vitamins, plant-based and herbal products, and beneficial bacteria to support your gut microbiome.

We want you to feel great!
